Tree bark of North America

Twelve barks of mature North American trees at chest height. Young trees often have smoother bark, and many honey locusts planted in yards and streets are thornless.

© 2026 Tree Identifier